Why Ready-to-Go Retail?

Ready-to-Go Retail ERP enables retailers to future proof their business, and to keep up with industry standards and best practices. With increasing competition for multichannel retail businesses on-store and online, it is vital for retail companies to have an ERP solution to manage urgent customer demands.

NTT DATA delivers a fast and efficient deployment in a secure and reliable infrastructure platform. Our package activates financial and inventory functionalities that would allow retailers to manage all major operations including handling multi-location stores, frequently moving stocks, pricing changes, discount offers on products, and much more.

What does it solve?

- Inability to see inventory levels across the entire supply chain
- Lack of real time tracking of product inventory
- Disparate processes to run retail business
- Errors and disruptions in financial transactions from growing online business demands
- Inaccuracy in financial reporting
- Inability to diversify retail strategy to scale business growth
